DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's election with traverse of group III is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the other groups share a special technical feature "the tissue embedding". This is not found persuasive because "tissue embedding" is not novel and thus can not be a special technical feature and also given that the method of claim 27 is not free of the art (see below), that method can not represent the special technical feature.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 27 & 29-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Owen et al (EP-A-0245969).

Owen et al (see for example the abstract) teach embedding tissue specimens into a material, e.g. wax, and positioning the tissue to be cut so that the slices can be further studied. The reference anticipates the claim subject matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 27-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Owen et al (EP-A-0245969).

Owen et al teach embedding tissue specimens into a material, e.g. wax , and positioning the tissue to be cut so that the slices can be further studied. The reference does not teach all of applicant's preferred embodiments, e.g. the orientation of the tissue corresponding to the in vivo orientation. However the orientation used and the means for producing the mold would have been matter of routine experimentation to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made. Owen suggests embedding the tissue so that it may be cut in different types of section, therefore it would have been obvious to embed and then cut the tissue in any known useful way to properly study/use the tissue.

As the references clearly indicate that the various proportions and amounts of the ingredients used in the claimed composition are result effective variables, they would be routinely optimized by one of ordinary skill in the art in practicing the invention disclosed by those references.

Accordingly, the claimed invention was prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made especially in the absence of evidence to the contrary.
